WACAHOOTE, Marion co., Fla., July 12th, 1858. MR. EDITOR: 1 guess your Tampa Bay affair was a little fishy, but this is a real life and death scrape. Wacahoote is known as the birthreally brave and impetuous. There has, it seems, been some difficulty brewing between Lafavette Gay and William Standly for some time, and they appointed to meet at Wacahoote last Friday to settle it. Accordingly they met, attended by ten or fifteen friends on ether side, probably most of them armed for deadly strife. Gay brought a double barreled shot gun. After some few words, blows ensued; pistols were drawn; Gay caught up his gun, fired in quick succes bons, both friends of Standly, and both Times, that but one Division of the three fell dead.
